"We find the UW-Extension nutrition education program to be a valuable asset in educating the youth of our summer and afterschool programs. It is a great way to promote healthy choices and a healthy lifestyle through fun and engaging activities."

Jazz Jashinsky, Waukesha Park and Recreation

Here Are Some Highlights:

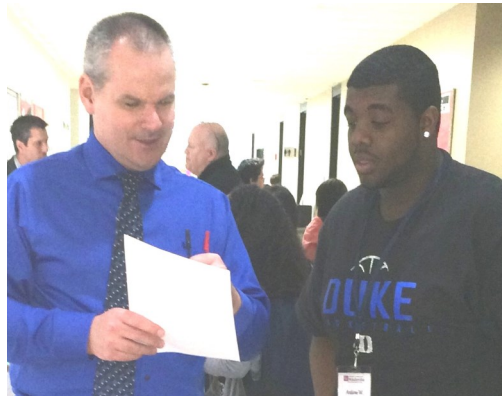

- ◆ UW Extension 4-H & Youth Development is engaged in reaching new audiences through the new 4-H SPIN (Special Interest) Clubs Model. SPINs are hands on episodic/high impact project focused experiences.
- ◆ UW-Extension worked with a diverse mix of business and community leaders to learn about the changing marketplace in downtown Waukesha and identify business and real-estate opportunities. A Market Analysis was developed to support current and new business growth and development.
- ◆ In 2015 UW-Extension Master Gardeners volunteered 14,398 hours at demonstration gardens and programs. Master Gardener volunteers improve the quality of life in our community and educate residents on science-based gardening recommendations.
- ◆ UW-Extension Waukesha County staff and UW-Extension State Specialists identified key business and economic development data sets for Waukesha County, analyzed and presented data trends for the steering committee and incorporated these trends into the Business Growth Strategy for Waukesha County, 2016-2018.
- ◆ Nutrition Educators taught lessons to youth in over 100 classrooms at six elementary schools in Waukesha reaching 2,383 students.

Nutrition Education staff teach lessons to youth at parks and community gardens

"Through my eleven years in 4-H, I have learned not only how to speak with confidence, but also how to use those communication skills to teach others. I know that this skill will continue to benefit my entire life."
